17 ORDER DENYING MOTION TO AMEND JUDGMENT

18 Re: Dkt. No. 37

19 Before the Court is Plaintiff CHEP's motion to amend judgment. ECF 37. The matter is 20 suitable for decision without oral argument. Accordingly, the hearing set for February 13, 2025 is 21 VACATED. See Civil L.R. 7-6. Having read CHEP's motion and carefully considered the 22 arguments therein and the relevant legal authority, the Court hereby DENIES the motion for the 23 following reasons.

24 On June 17, 2024, the Court adopted in part and modified in part Magistrate Judge
25 Hixson's Report and Recommendation Regarding Default Judgment. ECF 31. That order:

26 (1) Awarded CHEP damages in the amount of $127,785;
27 (2) Declared that CHEP has and is entitled to sole and exclusive ownership over and 28 possession of the CHEP pallets;
29 (3) Permanently enjoins Defendant Speedy from purchasing, selling, transferring, or using 30 CHEP pallets and/or further conversion of same;
31 (4) Ordered Speedy to deliver to CHEP all CHEP pallets which are detained by or in Speedy's 32 possession; and
33 (5) Granted CHEP leave to move for periodic inspections of Speedy's premises at least 30
34 days in advance of such an inspection to confirm compliance with the Court's order.

1 The Court entered judgment on December 13, 2024. ECF 36.

2 CHEP now moves the Court to amend judgment. Specifically, CHEP requests the Court
3 amend its judgment to add two new instructions ordering Speedy to:

4 (1) notify CHEP within five (5) calendar days by email (mario.birsa@chep.com with a copy to 5 samual.miller@akerman.com) each time Defendant comes into possession of CHEP
6 Pallets.

7 (2) fully cooperate with CHEP in CHEP's retrieval of all CHEP Pallets in Defendant's
8 possession following 24 hour's notice by CHEP. Notice may be given by CHEP by email,
9 telephone, fax, text, or in person.

10 ECF 37-1. CHEP's complaint did not seek either of these two forms of relief. See ECF 1 at 15-11 16.

12 Rule 59(e) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure permits a party to seek an order altering
13 or amending a judgment. In the Ninth Circuit, it is appropriate to alter or amend a judgment under 14 Rule 59(e) where "1) the motion is necessary to correct manifest errors of law or fact upon which 15 the judgment is based; 2) the moving party presents newly discovered or previously unavailable
16 evidence; 3) the motion is necessary to prevent manifest injustice; or 4) there is an intervening
17 change in controlling law." Turner v. Burlington N. Santa Fe RR. Co., 338 F.3d 1058, 1063 (9th 18 Cir. 2003) (internal quotations omitted). While a district court has considerable discretion when 19 deciding a Rule 59(e) motion, id., relief under the Rule is "an extraordinary remedy, to be used
20 sparingly in the interests of finality and conservation of judicial resources," *Kona Enter., Inc. v.
21 Estate of Bishop*, 229 F.3d 877, 890 (9th Cir. 2000) (internal quotations omitted).

22 In its motion, CHEP explains that Speedy has failed to comply with the Court's order and 23 argues amendment of the judgment is necessary in order to remove any ambiguity as to what is 24 required of Speedy. ECF 37 at 5-8. CHEP has not presented newly discovered evidence or 25 identified manifest errors of law or fact upon which the judgment is based, and there has been no
26 intervening change in controlling law. Rather, CHEP seeks to amend judgment solely for the 27 purpose of "prevent[ing] manifest injustice." ECF 37 at 9 (citing Turner, 338 F.3d at 1063).

28 "Courts have not specifically defined what constitutes 'manifest injustice' when deciding if

1 altered judgment is appropriate.” Bey v. Malec, No. 18-CV-02626-SI, 2020 WL 3058336, at *4
2 (N.D. Cal. June 9, 2020), aff’d sub nom. Bey v. Cristiani, No. 20-16177, 2021 WL 3743867 (9th
3 Cir. Aug. 24, 2021) (citing Delta Ltd. v. U.S. Customs and Border Protection Bureau, 393 F.
4 Supp. 2d 15 (D.D.C. 2005)). Moreover, courts within the Ninth Circuit routinely decide motions
5 to alter judgments without considering this factor. *See, e.g., United Nat. Ins. Co. v. Spectrum
6 Worldwide, Inc.*, 555 F.3d 772, 780 (9th Cir. 2009) (stating a motion under Rule 59(e) is 7 appropriately granted where “(1) the district court is presented with newly discovered evidence,
8 (2) the district court committed clear error or made an initial decision that was manifestly unjust,
9 or (3) there is an intervening change in controlling law”). Instead, courts regularly consider 10 “manifest injustice” in the context of determining whether there has been any clear error by the 11 district court. Zimmerman v. City of Oakland, 255 F.3d 734, 740 (9th Cir. 2001); see also Bey,
12 2020 WL 3058336, at *4 (finding no manifest injustice where plaintiff did not show the “Court’s
13 contested decision rises to the level of injustice required to make an altered judgment appropriate”
14 and that plaintiff “offer[ed] no specific basis showing the Court’s decision was so clearly unjust to 15 warrant an altered judgment”) (emphasis added). In other words, the question is whether an error
16 made by the Court, in the course of presiding of the matter and issuing its ruling, resulted in a
17 significantly unjust outcome.

18 Here, the purported manifest injustice CHEP identifies is not any unjust act on the part of 19 the Court, but rather Speedy’s failure to comply with the Court’s order. This is not the type of 20 harm Rule 59(e) is meant to address. Essentially, CHEP seeks to enforce the Court’s order, and a 21 Rule 59(e) motion is not the proper vehicle to do so. Accordingly, the Court DENIES without 22 prejudice CHEP’s motion for amendment of judgment.

23 IT IS SO ORDERED.
